Due to continuing concerns around the COVID-19 outbreak we wanted to reassure you about the ongoing continuity of supply and mitigations that BOC have in place for our gas products.

BOC produces almost all of our gas products locally in the South Pacific. As a result, there is currently no impact on our gas supply chain, nor do we anticipate any impact in the immediate future.

We have already taken some precautionary measures, and if there is a continued escalation of the COVID-19 within the South Pacific region BOC has business continuity plans in place that will be enacted to mitigate the risk of supply disruptions. Should this be required BOC will continue to monitor the supply situation, along with customer demands, and will be doing our utmost to minimise any inconvenience to customers.

If you have any concerns regarding this issue, please consult with your BOC Account Manager.
